ST. JOSEPH (Mo.), April 4th .- A great ensation was created here by the announcement that Jesse James had been shot and killed here in St. Joseph. The news spread with great rapidity, but almost all the people received the story with doubts until investigation established the fact beyond question. The excitement became more and more intense, and crowds of people rushed to the quarter where the shoeting took place, anx. ious to view the body of the dead outlaw and learn the particulars. In a small frame shanty in the south part of the city, on a hill not far from the World's Hotel, Jesse James has lived with his wife since some time in November last. Robert and Charles Ford, two of his gang, have made their headquar-ters at his house, and Charles, it is said, has lived with him in that shanty ever since November. Robert arrived about ten days ago, and the three have been making preparations for a raiding expedition, on which they were to start last night. James and the two Fords being in the front room together, the former took off his belt and laid his pistels on the bed preparatory to washing himself, when Robert Ford sprang up behind him and sent a builet through his brain. THE PRESIDENT'S VETO.

The news that President Arthur had retoed the anti-Chinese bill was not wholly unexpected, but it was none the less a disappointment to the people of California. The Congressional debates upon the bill revealed the existence of a much stronger sentiment against this kind of legislation than had been anticipated, and though the public opinion of the Eastern States was not expressed very strongly in the earlier stages of the discussion, there can be no doubt that a very powerful pressure was brought to bear upon the President to prevent him from signing the bill. Judging from the rapid growth of a sentiment hostile to all restrictive measures it may be oncluded that if the President had based his veto upon the antagonism of the bill to the fundamental principles of American In New York Government bonds are quoted at polity, he would have been sustained by would in that case have been impossible to obtain any alleviation of the evils from which the Pacific coast is suffering. But the President has not taken this ground, and though his objections to the bill will probably prevent its enactment in its present form, the removal of the provisions which he declares obnoxious can be effected value of the whole Comstock lode was rated so low of the statute. His main objection is to the twenty-year provision, which he considers equivalent to absolute prohibition, and therefore in conflict with the spirit, if not the letter, of the treaty with China. He further objects to the provisions for registration and passports, which he asserts to be undemocratic and opposed to the spirit of American institutions. He objects to the omission of all provision for the temporary residence of Chinese who may desire to regain their own country by passing through the United States. He thinks that the Chinese already in the country should be free to travel and change their residence, since although they Charles Gunson, who assaulted a three-year-old may no longer be wanted on the Pacific girl, was taken from jail at Kohomo, Ind , Monday coast, other parts of the country may desire their services. He points to the fact that these people have been extremely useful in the past, though he is not prepared to maintain that they supposed) and hanged him; but it was found their unrestricted immigration in the future is calculated to be an unmixed good. But he holds that whatever restrictive measure may be enacted at present should be in the nature of an experimental law, and that to pass the present bill would be to break faith with the Chinese Government, and to ignore the tenor of the negotiations which led to the making of the treaty which the bill is supposed to follow. It will be observed that none of these objections go to the principle of the bill. What the President really says is, that he will sign a bill suspending Chinese immigration for five or ten years, provided it is amended so as to include the points in regard to which he objects to the present one. As to the passport and registration plan, we presume that can be abandoned without any danger. It must be admitted that the method savored far more of Continental than American ideas, and that if the same end can be obtained without it, it will be bet ter to avoid so strange a violation of demobe ascertained whether the bill can be passed over the President's veto, but from this action, together with the feeling of the public fied that this is impracticable, and the more certainly so because the President has in effect intimated his willingness to

This constant immunity of course tended to cast a sort of glamour over the deeds of the brigands, and it was all ascribed to the Democratic representative. their own preternatural acuteness. But had the James brothers undertaken to settle in a civilized region, we venture to say that they could not have escaped capture a week. They really owed their freedom from arrest to the impenetrable obwith. They were originally guerrillas, belonging to Quantrell's band, and it is highly probable that some of their border still carrying on the war of the rebellion. lars, 91c apiece, nominal. Their raids have been most audacious. They have robbed at least a dozen banks and several express trains, and their plunder must have aggregated several hundred thousand dollars during the last ten or fifteen years. Both the brothers were cruel and pitiless murderers, and both have long ago forfeited all right to consideration. They were in deserved death fifty times over for their many assassinations and butcheries. Yet, kill Jesse James by winning his confidence,

MEN OF THE HOUR.

Some are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them."- [SHAKESPEARE.

Fenry Wadsworth Longfellow,

HENEY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW WAS orn at Portland (Me.), on the 27th of February, 1807. His father was an attorney at-law. In 1821, he entered Bowdoin College, and was graduated therein four years later. He then read law a few months in his father's ffice, a pursuit which, happily, he did not continue, friends who knew his genius, by equaintance with his college life, providing im the opportunity of an occupation more congenial. They offered him the position of Professor of Modern Languages at Bowdoin, one entirely proper to his bent. To qualify himself the better for its duti s, Mr. Longfellow spent the three years and a half imreflow spent the three years and a half immediately succeeding his acceptance of the offer, in Europe, visiting Franc', Spair, Italy, Germany, Holland and Eurland for this purpose. He came home in 18.9, and began his prefessorhip at Bowioin, which continued until 1835, when the death of Mr. George Ticknor, who held the corresponding position in Heaven University and leading the continued in the corresponding to the correspond osition in Harvard University, resulted in his acceptance of the vacant professorship in that eminent seat of learning. Before actually entering upon his duties, he again went to Europe, this time visiting the Scandinavian cuntries, Germany and Switzerland, mainly with the view of promoting his acquaintance with the literature of Northern Europe. In he autumn of 1836, he began to teach in Harvard, and continued there eighteen years, when he was succeeded in his position by smes Russell Lowell. There is no occasion whatever to det il the numerous productions of his pen Perhaps "Evangeline" and 'Miles Standish" are the best known of his longer pieces. In the writer's opinion, is most effective work is seen in some of his prices, which are perfect in their construction nd pervaded with sweetness, pensive tenderless and humanity. Since 1835, Mr. Long-llow has made two trips to Europe, one is 842, and the second in 1868 and 1869. On ne last occ. sion, he was made a Doctor of aws by the University of Cambridge, En-land, and a Doctor of Civil Law by that of band, and a bosset of the law by that the varieties of the Russian Academy of cience, and in 1877 of the Spanish Academy.

Covering the Body for Ten Years, Resisting all Methods of Treatment, Cured by Cuticura Remedies. 17 Congress St., Boston, Feb. 28, 1878. I feel it a duty to inform you, and through you all who are interested to know the fact, that a most vation from its first appearance to the present time, — about ten (10) years,— covering the greater portion of the patient's body and limbs with its peculiar irritating and itching seab, and to which all the known methods of treating such diseases had been applied without benefit, has completely disappeared,
leaving a clean and healthy skin, under a few days of profuse application of CUTICURA.

I can and do heartily advise all similarly afflicted to try the remedy which has been so effectual in this ages. Wear truly yours.

Very truly yours, CHAS. HOUGHTON. VARICOSE ULCER.
